Check Room

By Associated Press
Boston, Mass.—Police estimated at 9:30 Saturday morning that at least eight persons had lost their lives in the collapse of a wall of the Pickwick club, early Saturday. One unidentified girl was taken from the ruins and rescue workers reported seeing the bodies of two other women and five men in the wreckage. It was believed others would be found as the work of clearing away the brick proceeded.

The first dead body to be identified was that of Patrolman Paul Holloran. He was found by an old friend, Patrolman Sylvester Murphy who formerly was attached to the same station. Rescuers were unable to remove his body.

For several hours efforts have been made to reach women whose names could be heard. She was able to talk and told them her name was Edith Jordan of Somerville, a sister of the girl who was taken from the ruins. She was caught beneath a metal ceiling and joists and a rubber tubing and funnel were used to give her water. The dead girl was unidentified. The injuries ranged from fractured skulls to bruises.

HEAR SHOUTS IN RUINS

The rescuers working feverishly among the ruins heard voices from the great pile of bricks and timber. "There are six of us here," a woman called, and another woman cried that "there are three here." Fearful of using crowbars lest some hidden victim be struck by them the workers labored carefully jacking up timber and removing the thousands of bricks with utmost care.

The searchers counted upwards of 75 coats and hats. The dancers on the second floor, when the collapse came were estimated from 120 to 200 and those who had escaped unscathed at one third that number. Survivors said that a dance had just finished when the brick wall slid away and the roof and three upper floors caved in upon them.

The dead girl had been pinned by heavy timbers between the first and second floors. She was breathing faintly when found. She died a few minutes later.

A telephone operator was listening to the dance music over the telephone and described what she said was "a sudden crash."

A fire swept the three top floors some months ago and the weakening of the partitions there was believed to have helped on the collapse.

TWO LIVES SNUFFED OUT BY EXPLOSIONS, TWO OTHERS INJURED

Chicago.—Two were dead and a boy and two men suffered from injuries in pre-fourth fireworks celebrations despite police ban.

Albert Didaise, 3, was fatally injured while playing with matches and fire crackers.

While ramming a charge of powder into a pipe, it exploded and fatally hurt Herbert Clyde, 20. The left side of his face was blown away and he was hurled 30 feet. He died in a hospital.

Premature explosion of a "flower pot" tore the arm off William Lefkowsky, 15, probably blinded him and punctured his side. He may die.

A homemade bomb exploded in the hands of Charles Mack, tearing off three fingers of his left hand and making a hole in his side.

Nicholas Rooney, 40, was shot in the leg by a stray bullet fired by an early celebrator.

HEAT WAVE TAKES TOLL OF LIVES ALL OVER NATION

Break Comes Friday With Wind and Rainstorms After Heat Hits Record

Chicago.—The middle west's short-lived heat wave took flight with the advent of cooling winds and thunderstorms but the high temperature of the last three days accounted for several deaths and scores of prostrations while cloudbursts and drownings added materially to the casualty toll.

The break in the wave for most of the central territory came late Friday in generous downpours, with showers indicated Saturday for the eastern and central Great Lakes region and the lower Ohio and lower Mississippi valleys. Moderate temperatures were predicted in the middle area, but the weather chart said the heat would continue slightly modified in districts to the south.

Friday's weather chronicle was an erratic mixture of windstorms, heavy rains, cloudbursts, temperature drops, and in a few instances of surprising rises in the mercury. Chicago which usually remains comparatively cool because of lake breezes, saw the temperature ascend from 77 at noon to 88 at evening a record for the year, while Milwaukee reported a rise from 80 to 90 degrees in ten minutes. The highest mark in the central states was 102 at Springfield, Ill.

AUTO PARTY DROWNS

The day's casualties included an automobile party of six, drowned in a flood resulting from a cloudburst at Hay Junction near Rock Springs, Wyo. Another cloudburst occurred in Colorado, flooding Cherry creek, which threatened for a time to inundate South Denver, and points along the waterway for 40 miles. Hundreds of persons prepared to flee but after several hours of anxiety, the danger was declared over.

The heat caused one death and 26 prostrations in Louisville, Ky., and one death at Evansville, Ind., while a farm worker was killed by lightning at Brazil, Ind. A heavy wind and rainstorm at Newcastle, Ind., gave rise to erroneous reports that the town had been struck by a tornado with many deaths. Four persons were drowned at Center, Ala., and one at Knoxville, Tenn.

RACINE APPREHENSIVE FOR MISSING CRAFT

By Associated Press
Racine.—Though coast guard crews from Racine, Milwaukee and Michigan ports searched the water of Lake Michigan until after dark, no trace had been found of the two Racine men who early Friday morning set out for Muskegon, Mich., in a speed motor launch, the Suzette.

Apprehension grew as the hours passed, for it was first thought that the boat might have met with nothing more serious than mechanical trouble, and that, although delayed, it would reach its destination.

The launch, with its crew of two—Ray Finch and Fred Jorgensen—left this city at 2 a. m., and should have reached Muskegon by 7 a. m. at the latest.

It is feared that the thunder squall which broke at dawn and which kicked the lake into whitecaps may have capsized the craft or left it drifting helplessly.

"Ability To Pay" Will Be Considered Only In Regard To Interest On Debts

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright 1925 by the Post Pub. Co.

Washington, D. C.—"Ability to pay" will not be an acceptable basis for payment by Europe on the principal of war debts but will be taken into consideration with respect to interest payments only.

This is the most important piece of information which the European governments have just obtained from the United States government in the course of various conversations, exchanges of diplomatic notes, and other communications on the subject of allied war debts.

BRITAIN WON'T OBJECT

America has noted the statement of the British government in her "reminder" to European debtors that if an arrangement is made to pay anything on debts owed to the United States, "proportionate" sums must also be paid to Great Britain. Coupled with this is the significant declaration of Great Britain that she will not object of the United States makes now that anything will be done until after the French and Belgians have agreed with America on terms. There is natural disappointment here that Italy cannot immediately do something to clear up her debt problem but internal difficulties in Italy are held to be largely responsible.

Also It Is Said That Italy Does Not Yet Realize The Difficulties She Will Encounter With Her Credit Situation

Also it is said that Italy does not yet realize the difficulties she will encounter with her credit situation if she does not begin cultivating her own public opinion to view the American debt as a real and not a theoretical obligation. Some of the editorials in the Italian press lately have given the impression that Italy doesn't owe American anything at all and that such payments as are made will be made merely in the interest of good will. Such an attitude has not been

Motorists Pay Seven Millions To State

Madison, Wis.—Owners of automobiles and motor trucks paid $7,886,437.84 into the Wisconsin state treasury during the fiscal year just closed. Most of the funds will be used for building and maintaining highways.

Fred R. Zimmerman, secretary of state, today issued figures on motor vehicle registration during the fiscal year ending June 30. They show that 476,138 automobiles, 58,474 trucks and 2,864 motorcycles were registered by owners. Dealers paid license fees on 2,650 automobiles.

The license fees increased approximately $1,000,000 and the number of automobiles and trucks increased more than 60,000. The fees for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1924, were $6,712,637.15. They were collected on a total of 473,913 automobiles and trucks, exclusive of those in the hands of dealers, and 3,345 motorcycles.

continental allies than were arranged between Great Britain and the United States.

This has been America's understanding of what was logical and equitable ever since the British announced that they would regard "ability to pay" as worthy of consideration in agreement made with France and other debtors. But this is the first time the British have said publicly they would not ask for a revision of their agreement with America if the latter gave France and the others easier terms.

AIR IS CLEARED

On the whole, the British declaration is regarded here as clearing the air and enabling the United States to make real headway in negotiations with the French and Belgians who are at the moment considered most likely to make the next settlements with the United States.

While the Italian negotiations for a time gave promise of reaching something tangible, there is little hope now that anything will be done until after the French and Belgians have agreed with America on terms. There is natural disappointment here that Italy cannot immediately do something to clear up her debt problem but internal difficulties in Italy are held to be largely responsible. Also it is said that Italy does not yet realize the difficulties she will encounter with her credit situation if she does not begin cultivating her own public opinion to view the American debt as a real and not a theoretical obligation. EXPLAIN MEANING OF DEFENSE DAY PROGRAM

Chicago.—The need and meaning of the nation's defense program, were themes of messages, addresses and patriotic gatherings Saturday here and throughout the Sixth Corps area, comprising the states of Wisconsin, Michigan and Illinois.

Some 75,000 men, it was estimated, were subject to mobilization in and about Chicago, including the regular army, national guard, officers reserve corps and R. O. T. C.

POLICE SEEK SLAYER OF WOMAN IN KENOSHA

Kenosha.—Police Saturday were attempting to determine who is responsible for the death of Mrs. Mary Ripalek, 45 years old, who was shot to death at the entrance to the restaurant of which her husband is proprietor, about 9 o'clock Friday evening. The shooting occurred during a rainstorm, and no track of the one who made the attack has been found. Joseph, 17 years old, a son, heard the shot which killed his mother and rushed from the second floor to find her dying.

reflected in the conference with the Italian officials but until the Italian people are aware of the responsibility of their debt it is not felt here that the Italian government will be able to present proposals that can be accepted by the American government.

QUASH DEBTOR'S HOPES

As to easier terms of payment expected by France and Belgium, recent negotiations have disabused the mind of these two debtors that any reduction of principal will be accepted. There may be a lengthier term for payment of the principal than Great Britain secured but the biggest concession that America can give is on the interest charges.

Altogether the situation may be considered as progressing and if Belgium and France will only see that their own credit situation will be vastly improved by a prompt settlement it is expected here that trade relations with Europe will be stimulated. The American economic situation would thus be assisted through a better tax law and an increase in power to purchase European products.

ELECT RACINE MAN TO HEAD SPANISH WAR VETS

Sheboygan.—George H. Herzog, Racine, was chosen commander of the United Spanish War Veterans of Wisconsin at the twenty-sixth annual encampment held here last Friday afternoon. Racine was named as the 1926 convention city.

Other officers elected were Rae Weaver, Beaver Dam, senior vice commander, and E. W. Simmons, Milwaukee, junior vice commander. The women's auxiliary named the following officers: Mrs. Fannie Carterton, Racine, department president; Mrs. Jessie Graves, Milwaukee, judge advocate; Mrs. Mabel Langhoff, Fort Atkinson, chaplain; Mrs. Myrtle Price, Mauston, historian.

In the closing business session of the three day meeting, the veterans adopted resolutions to be sent to congress, asking the abolition of unnecessary boards, commissions and high salaried officers in the veterans' departments in order that the soldiers themselves might get the full measure of financial consideration.

Other resolutions adopted asked pensions of $20 a month for veterans attaining the age of 60, with $5 a month every year until the age of 80, when the veterans asked that $50 a month be given until the death of the individual concerned; and a $30 a month pension for widows of veterans and $8 a month for their children under 17.

U. S. PASSING THROUGH TEST OF DEFENSES

Plan for Nationwide Muster
Day Depends on Success of Present Trial

By Associated Press

Washington, D. C.—The three-part army of the United States was undergoing Saturday in association with Fourth of July celebrations all over the country, the second test of plans made for mustering the army in event of war. Unit commanders in the regular army, national guard and organized reserves were putting into effect their own plans for assembling their units as they would if actually called to the colors.

Practically every large community in the country and even towns and villages had a part in the day's muster. Out of the decentralized stock-taking process the war department will receive before Sunday reports giving a general picture of the response made by the country to this second effort to find a practical way to test national defense plans, and at the same time, to impress upon country as a whole the meaning and significance of the new military policy adopted in 1925.

While there were more than 1,500,000 one-day volunteers enrolled in the various branches of the reorganized army in the test last September, war department officials had no method of predicting what the total of the similar enrollment would be Saturday. They were confident, however, that even should the total fall far short of the September figures, enough new data as to the status of individual units of all three components of the army would be produced to insure sound and practical development of the next stage of their planning. Because of the historic significance of July 4, special stress was laid in all war department instructions in the patriotic demonstration aspect of the muster.

Unless the results of Saturday's tests prove to be a complete surprise and disclose an undreamed of degree of popular interest in the project, it now seems improbable that the war department will recommend to congress, establishment by law of a nationwide muster day occurring at intervals of two or more years.

Estimate Santa Barbara Damages At $10,000,000

Santa Barbara, Calif.—Field notes of the board of California engineers who have been making a detailed examination of all public and business buildings in the earthquake zone were completed late Friday and these were assembled and submitted Saturday to the Santa Barbara Committee on Public Safety.

Six distinct shocks Friday, one of considerable intensity, had a noticeable effect upon overwrought nerves and many who had ventured back into homes and places of occupation again took to the safety of the open air to eat, sleep and work.

The most serious effect of Friday's shocks appeared to be on the fatal home of C. K. G. Billings, where ac-

ATTORNEYS DENY RIGHT OF U. S. TO RULE TENNESSEE

Scopes Prosecution Says
State Not Subject to Nation in Local Case

Dayton, Tenn.—Three local attorneys associated in the prosecution of the Scopes evolution case said in a statement issued early Saturday, that the State of Tennessee is sovereign and not subject to control of the federal government in regard to its local affairs and the enforcement of its criminal laws.

This declaration came on the heels of the announced plan of defense counsel to seek removal of the trial of John T. Scopes, teacher, from state court to United States court by means of a federal injunction which would procure an earlier decision on the questioned constitutionality of the Tennessee statute forbidding the teaching of evolution in public schools.

The three prosecution lawyers declined the latest move of defense counsel and characterized it as "an effort to make a sensational display of the trial of simple case."

Residents of Dayton, where the trial is scheduled to begin July 10, were perplexed yesterday by the announcement in Chicago by Clarence Darrow, of Scopes counsel, that the defense would seek to remove the proceedings to federal court were confident Saturday that the test of the evolution law, long planned for would be held in this little town.

3 ESCAPED CONVICTS TAKEN IN GUN FIGHT

Marquette, Mich.—Three of the four convicts who escaped from Marquette prison Monday night were in a hospital at Iron Mountain Saturday with wounds suffered in a pistol fight with officers near Sagola earlier Saturday, while a fourth, also believed wounded, is sought in the woods.

Early reports that Eddie Weisman, reputed leader of the quartet, had been killed in the fight, proved to be erroneous.

It is understood his condition is not serious. Isadore Londe and Joe DeFerio, taken with Weisman, suffered a wound in the chest and through the hand respectively.

Vance Hardy, fourth of the quartet, who escaped, is expected to be brought in soon.

HOUSES CRUMBLE WHEN TREMOR HITS JAPAN

Tokio.—Numerous houses crumbled Saturday when an earthquake described as "somewhat severe" struck Yonago, 100 miles west of Kobe, which was also shaken. No casualties were reported.

The engineering report, it was stated, will present a final estimate of the cost of repairing or rebuilding damaged or destroyed buildings which the engineers had previously estimated tentatively to be not in excess of $10,000,000.

In addition the report will present a list of the buildings which must be razed.

NATIONS MUST BAN DISTRUST BY AGREEMENT

America Will Help Europe
Only if World Powers
Make Covenants

SPEAKS AT CELEBRATION

President Recalls Problem
Faced by Washington in Colonial Times

Cambridge, Mass.—Security pacts to preserve the peace of Europe were given a pledge of moral support today by President Coolidge, who coupled his promise with a warning that on no other terms could America be expected to contribute further to the financial revival of the Old World.

"If the people of the Old World are mutually distrustful of each other," he said in an address delivered here, "let them enter into mutual covenants for their mutual security. While our own country should refrain from making political commitments where it does not have political interests, such covenants would always have the moral support of our government, and could not fail to have the commendation of the public opinion of the world."

"On what other basis can there be any encouragement for a disposition to attempt to finance a revival of Europe?"

The president was speaking at a celebration marking the 150th anniversary of the day George Washington took command of the Continental Army, and nearly the whole address had been devoted to a review of the public services of the Father of the Country. His reference to the present day problems of Europe came just at the end, and was compressed into a few studiously-chosen words which made no specific reference to details of the security pact proposals recently under consideration abroad.

FRANKLIN WASHINGTON

A recapitulation of the virtues of Washington provided the cue for the pronouncement, which was the first formal statement on the subject to be voiced on behalf of the administration. After recounting Washington's faith in the principles of democracy and honesty, Mr. Coolidge continued:

"The vigor with which he insisted on the prosecution of war was no less than the vigor with which he insisted on the observance of peace. He cherished no resentments, he harbored no hatreds, he forgave his enemies. He felt the same obligation to execute the terms of a treaty made for the benefit of a former foe that he felt to require the observance of those made for the benefit of his own country. He realized that peace could be the result only of mutual forbearance and mutual good faith."

He harmonized the divergent and conflicting interests of different nations by different colonial agreements by conference and agreement. He demonstrated by his example, and our country has demonstrated by experience, that more progress can be made by cooperation than by conflict. To agree quickly with your adversary always pays.

"The world has not outgrown, it can never outgrow, the absolute necessity for conformity to these eternal principles. I want to see America assume a leadership among the nations in the reliance upon the good faith of mankind. I do not see how civilization can expect permanent progress on any other theory. If what is saved in the productive peace of today is to be lost in the destructive war of tomorrow, the people of this earth can look forward to nothing but everlasting servitude. There is no justification for hope. This was not the conception which Washington had of life."

"If the people of the Old World are mutually distrustful of each other let them enter into mutual covenants for their mutual security, and when such covenants have been made let them be solemnly observed no matter what the sacrifice. They have settled the far more difficult problems of reparations, they are in process of funding their debts to us, why can they not agree on permanent terms of peace and fully reestablish international faith and credit? If there be differences which cannot be adjusted at the moment, if there be conditions which cannot be foreseen, let them be resolved in the future by methods of arbitration and by forms of judicial determination."

MORAL SUPPORT
"While our own country should refrain from making political commitments where it does not have political interests, such covenants would always have the moral support of our government, and could not fail to have the commendation of the public opinion of the world."

Mrs. Gewelinger Finally Freed from Husband Who Treated Her Cruelly

After four abandoned attempts at divorce, Mrs. Esther Gewelinger, Appleton, obtained a complete separation from her husband Charles Thursday in circuit court under a decree granted by Judge Edgar V. Werner.

Her husband had previously started three actions, and she had begun one suit, but each time the proceedings were dropped until the fifth action.

Mrs. Gewelinger complained that she had been subjected to regular course of abuse in which her husband beat and bruised her, call her evil names and frequently came home intoxicated.

Although the defendant engaged Attorney F. J. Rooney to contest the action, the attorney withdrew the action, the complainant, Henry Kreisler, swore to the complainant's statements.

Divorce court represented the state in the divorce suit, while the plaintiff was represented by Attorney Homer Benton.

Mrs. Gewelinger was awarded $15 a month alimony, the custody of three small children up to 4 years of age and given the household furniture. The couple was married in Menominee, Mich., July 21, 1919.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

Unanimously Adopted in Congress July 4, 1776 at Philadelphia

WHEN, in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his Assent to Laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his Governors to pass Laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his Assent be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other Laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of Representation in the Legislature, a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public Records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the Legislative powers, incapable of Annihilation, have returned to the People at large for their exercise; the State remaining in the meantime exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the Laws for Naturalization of Foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new Appropriations of Lands.

He has obstructed the Administration of Justice, by refusing his Assent to Laws for establishing Judiciary powers.

He has made Judges dependent on his Will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of New Offices, and sent hither swarms of Officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, Standing Armies, without the Consent of our Legislature.

He has affected to render the Military independent of and superior to the Civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his Assent to their Acts of pretended Legislation: For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us: For protecting them by a mock Trial from punishment for any Murders which they should commit on the Inhabitants of these States: For cutting off our Trade with all parts of the world: For imposing Taxes on us without our Consent: For depriving us in many cases of the benefits of Trial by Jury: For transporting us beyond Seas to be tried for pretended offences: For abolishing the free System of English Laws in a neighboring Province, establishing therein an Arbitrary government, and enlarging its Boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these Colonies: For taking away our Charters, abolishing our most valuable Laws and altering fundamentally the Forms of our Governments: For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated Government here by declaring us out of his Protection and waging War against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our Coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is at this time transporting large Armies of foreign Mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of Cruelty & perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the Head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow Citizens taken Captive on the high Seas to bear Arms against their Country, to become the executors of their friends and Brethren, or to fall themselves by their Hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavored to bring on the Inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions. In every stage of these Oppressions We have Petitioned for Redress in the most humble terms: Our repeated Petitions have been answered by repeated injury. A Prince, whose character is swayed by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people. Nor have we been wanting in attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their Legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our Separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, Enemies in War, in Peace Friends.

WE THEREFORE, the REPRESENTATIVES of the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, in GENERAL CONGRESS, Assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the Name, and by the authority of the good People of these Colonies, solemnly PUBLISH and DECLARE, That these United Colonies are, and of Right ought to be FREE and INDEPENDENT STATES; that they are Absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as FREE and INDEPENDENT STATES, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all Acts and Things which INDEPENDENT STATES may of right do. And for the support of this Declaration, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes, and our sacred Honor.

NEW RADIO STATION TO GO ON AIR NEXT WEEK

Appleton radio enthusiasts will be able to tune in on one more Wisconsin broadcasting station next week with the formal opening and dedication of WSOE, the Milwaukee School of Engineering, at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening, July 7.

The station will be the most powerful in the state, according to the owners. The opening program will be about seven hours in length. Five hundred watts will be used the opening night, but this power may be reduced as the occasion demands.

More than 400 artists will take part. There will be three bands, five orchestras, instrumental soloists, vocal solos, quartets and other numbers. Short talks will be given by leading Milwaukeeans and many novelties will be introduced.

Initial tests are said to indicate that the station will be unusually sharp and with exceptional quality and modulation. Officials and engineers of WSOE are of the opinion that the range of the station under favorable conditions will not only be from coast to coast but may be heard in Europe.

SEE INDUSTRIES ABOUT EXHIBIT

Valley Display at State Products Exposition Is Suggested at Luncheon

Members of the industrial committee of the chamber of commerce will visit practically every manufacturer in the city to enlist interest in an Appleton exhibit at the Wisconsin products exposition, which will be held this year in connection with the state fair in Milwaukee in August.

This committee had a luncheon and conference at Conway hotel Wednesday noon with Joseph Alexander, representative of Wisconsin Manufacturers association, Madison, and made the arrangements in this way.

It was the belief of the committee that the exposition not only should carry out the idea of having each city arrange its booth instead of having representatives industries separately as in the past but that a Fox river valley aisle should be carried out. The idea would be to arrange one booth for each city in the valley, and have all grouped together to show the products and activities of the entire section from Fond du Lac to Green Bay. Mr. Alexander was pleased with the suggestion and will confer with other cities concerning it.

The industrial committee will be divided into groups, a list of industries will be prepared, and a personal visit will be made to each. The idea will be to avoid highly elaborate settings but rather to promote the exhibit as a civic project, with nominal expense only. The purpose of the exposition is to better acquaint people with the industries of the state.

George F. Kull, secretary of Wisconsin Manufacturers association and formerly city editor of Appleton Post, was here with Mr. Alexander but had to leave before the luncheon took place.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Taylor of Grand Chute, Ben Bart, Mrs. Ethel Vandenberg and Mrs. B. Hart of Appleton, visited Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Grant, Medina.

Dr. and Mrs. Victor F. Marshall will leave Saturday night for Glacier and Yellowstone National park. They will return Friday evening, July 17.

REPORT CHILD MARRIAGES ON GAIN IN U. S.

More Than 667,000 Persons in Country Married Before
They Were 16 Years

By Associated Press

New York—More than 667,000 persons living in the United States today were "child brides," less than 16 years of age when they married, or were married to brides under that age, and the great majority of these, contrary to popular belief, are native white of native parentage. These are a few of the many facts revealed in an extended study of child marriages pursued in 30 cities in 28 states, a preliminary report on which was made public here by the Russell Sage foundation.

This situation is due in large measure to two causes, says the report: the fact that many states require no more evidence of age than the affidavit of one of the candidates for a marriage license, and that the legal minimum marriage age is still only 12 years for girls and 14 years for boys in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Louisiana, Virginia, Florida, Maryland, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Colorado, Idaho, Maine and Mississippi.

Continuing the report given out by the foundation says: "The serious nature of the situation becomes even more impressive when it is known that the foundation classes as child brides only those under 16 years of age; that it does not take into account the many marriages of children over 16, but under; and that the total of 667,000 child brides and husbands of child brides is increased each year by thousands of additional child marriages. We have the foundation's investigators included in their estimates boys married at 17 or younger to girls or women older than 15, because the number of such marriages is relatively small."

"The study, which is still under way, covers not only the child marriage problem, but the whole subject of the administration of marriage laws. The sections of the report dealing with child marriages will be published within a few weeks and will immediately be brought to the attention of legislatures, state and local, marriage law administrators, school authorities, state and local legislators, clergymen and social welfare agencies throughout the country."

"As an illustration of the public apathy in the matter, it is a fact that in 14 states it is legally possible for a girl to marry at an earlier age than that at which she is permitted to become a wage earner. The marriage age of girls has remained an inactive issue in these states, while their educational and child welfare agencies have kept the age of leaving school and of entering industry a burning one."

In the matter of child marriages, no group in any section of the United States has yet given serious attention to the social effect of existing laws and to their necessary daily adaptation in the license offices. It should be noted that these facts concern the general public also, and parents more than any other one section of the public."

A squad of Appleton police constituted themselves a raiding party and made an attack against heavy artillery which had invaded the Fourth ward early Saturday morning. The raiders captured six cannon which the enemy deserted in their retreat.

The engagement took part in the vicinity of St. Elizabeth hospital. The loud and often repeated snoring of the hospital until one of them took it upon himself to call the police.

The shooting had started at shortly after 4 o'clock. The confiscated cannons were of sizes ranging from 8 inches to 14 feet in length and were equipped with ram rods and sledge hammers. The largest one was filled with dynamite and gun powder. The entire loot was thrown into the river.

U. S. ENTERING A REAL PERIOD OF PROSPERITY

Don't Let Bulls or Bears Rock
Your Boat, Babson Advises
Businessmen

Babson Park, Mass. — During the past two weeks Roger W. Babson has been making a study of the crop situation with a view of determining the real meaning of the government's crop report. Assuming that the government figures are correct, Mr. Babson believes that their importance is being greatly exaggerated. His complete statement is as follows:

"The stock market always reaches its lowest point during the early portion of a period of depression. After the insiders have accumulated such holdings as they desire at the lowest prices, they begin to gradually talk optimistically. This optimistic talk continues throughout the period of depression and is accompanied by rising stock market prices. As these people have large security holdings, they are naturally interested in the market. Hence they give an optimistic interpretation to all news whenever possible; they endeavor to suppress bad news and exaggerate good news. This situation continues throughout the period of depression until the market climbs to high figures, when these market operators begin to liquidate."

STOCK MARKET NOW HIGH
"The stock market usually reaches its highest point at the beginning of an era of improvement. Statistics indicate that we are at or approaching such a time at present. This accounts for the liquidation which is going on now in the stock market and explains why wise people are now taking their profits. Gradually, as the insiders sell out, they turn pessimistic. It is an old Wall Street quotation that the market bear is sold out bull. Surely this has been true throughout my lifetime and very noticeably so. After the insiders liquidate, they begin to exaggerate bad news and suppress good news, because they then are interested in producing lower prices, having taken their profits in the market. All of this means that if a medium sized wheat crop is indicated when stocks are low, this wheat crop is reported as a 'fairly good crop which will probably be sold at record breaking prices.' If, however, the government forecasts a similar crop when the stock market is high, then these same operators state that 'the crop will be very short and prices very low, thus bringing great losses to the agricultural district.' This is the situation at the present time, and readers must recognize the fact when considering crop reports."

"Without doubt the winter wheat crop will be a disappointment this fall as to bushels, which will be less than for several years. Moreover, from present indications the world wheat crop will be quite good, thus keeping world prices down to a fair figure. On the other hand, the United States tariff on wheat must not be forgotten which means that the American people must pay considerably more than the world market. Hence our Western farmers should be able to make a fair profit even on the present crop indications because the price to our farmers should be quite good. Hence I believe pessimistic crop reports are being exaggerated and that even the wheat grower may have a fairly good year."

SHOULD BE HOPEFUL
"However, the purpose of this interview is not to discuss either the stock market or the wheat crop, but to urge business men to keep on an even keel and not let either the bulls or the bears of the stock market rock their boat. I want to impress upon business men that the financial interest are always bullish during the early part of a period of depression and are always bearish in the early part of a period of improvement. All of this means that the present high prices of stocks and the pessimistic talk which is now com-

Trade Has Reached Bottom And Rise Is Just Ahead

BY JOHN T. FLYNN
NEW YORK—Some experts see in the peak which the bond market has reached the beginning of the end of easy money and the turning point in business. It is a fact that bonds have had all through May and June a strong growth and are now at extraordinarily high prices. This may mark some turning point or other, but certainly it would seem that bonds will scarcely go beyond this.

In the business situation as a whole appear the following favorable factors:

Decline in commodity prices checked.

The P-V line the main forecasting line of this service rises slightly.

Stocks of commodities being liquidated.

"Real wages" of labor still high. Money is easy and promises to continue so.

Business failures decrease. Political conditions favorable.

The unfavorable factors are:

Production in basic industries not yet fully reactivated.

Stocks of commodities still too large on the average.

Unfilled orders small.

New enterprises incorporated decrease.

Exports decline.

ing from certain interests is one very good indication that we are entering a period of real business improvement.

In addition to the general reasons above given, this is borne out most clearly by statistics. Most of the fundamental subjects show an improvement over last year, notwithstanding the pessimistic talk you hear today.

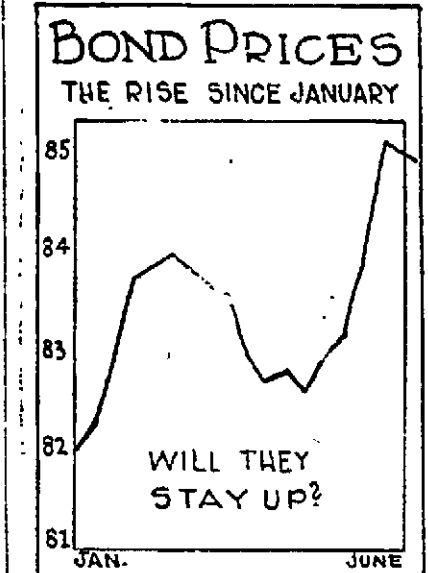

MORE STATISTICS

"Check transactions for May amounted to $49,114,000,000, 17 per cent ahead of the figure for May, 1924. Returns for three weeks in June indicate even a larger increase. Failures show considerable improvement for the liabilities of firms failing in May were but 71 per cent of May a year ago; while the number of firms failing has not declined as much, but is now 6 per cent below last year's rate. Building is unusually active as evidenced by contracts awarded and permits. May, 1925 operations in twenty leading cities were $207,255,000, while in May, 1924 the value of permits totaled but $185,436,000. Cement production was 15,503,000 barrels, an increase of 32 per cent.

"Recent foreign trade statistics show improvement, with exports in May $370,000,000—10 per cent larger than last year; while imports gained 8 per cent to $228,000,000. Car loadings are running close to one million a week in spite of lighter coal shipments, while merchandise in less than car load lots is considerably above all previous records. Freight car surpluses continue heavy, although there has been a gradual decrease since April. On June 1st there was a surplus of 324,000 cars compared with 345,000 cars on April 1st.

"The Comptroller reports that bank loans have increased $545,000,000, and deposits $1,291,000,000 since last year. Statistics on money rates show commercial paper less than 4 per cent, about the same as a year ago. Retail trade is showing a gain over last year; April, the most recent month reported, was the largest on record. Production in many lines is high; 401,300 automobiles and trucks were produced in May compared with 421,500 in April and 304,000 in May a year ago. 560,492,000 gallons of gasoline were produced in April, an increase of 106,000,000 gallons above April, 1924. An increase of 18 per cent in New Corporations during May compared with May a year ago, would seem to indicate optimism regarding the outlook. And one of the most encouraging conditions is that the purchasing power of the American farmer has increased about 10 per cent over last year.

"In view of the above figures it is evident that statistics bear out the statements previously made. Our only difficulty today is that our manufacturing capacity is too large for present demands. As the manufacturer makes his real profit on the last 25 per cent capacity, profits are now not very good. The same general principle applies to the retailer. The total consumption of goods is excellent at the present time and the per capita purchases of all articles is probably greater today than ever before. The difficulty comes from the fact that the margin of profits is smaller and that these profits must be divided among a great many more retailers than heretofore. If we would just stop for a while building factories and small stores, this situation would quickly right itself and everyone would be better off. In the meantime the Babson chart still continues around the normal line at at the moment is 1 per cent above normal."

Employment of labor continues to decrease.

Future trend of prices uncertain.

THE OUTLOOK

The outlook for the summer is for considerable irregularity in business with gradually increasing stability at a level but little below normal. Business will probably recede a little more rapidly than usual for the season until August. At present the outlook is for recovery in the fall.

During May the process of industrial readjustment which began about February was still going on. It has become more and more apparent, however, that this readjustment is not to be very severe or prolonged. It was preceded by no boom and production on the average was carried but little above normal. Accordingly no great jump or depression would be expected.

The chief danger at present is that producers, in their desire to reduce unit costs by increasing volume, may fail to allow the readjustment to become complete. We might have the history of the 1923 and 1924 years repeated. Some further curtailment in certain industries such as copper, iron and steel, textiles, and crude petroleum would have a favorable effect on prices. It is desirable that stocks of basic commodities in first hands, which are still too large, should undergo further liquidation.

Drying from hand-to-mouth, which has become so prevalent, will probably continue to a large extent. This method of doing business, however, has been carried too far in some industries and it will be conducive to lower costs and better and more stable profits to have a larger volume of future business on the books.

FEELING FOR THE BOTTOM
The large amount of reliable information which exists regarding stocks and production in connection with the prevalence of ah-hi-to-mouth buying will probably insure a very cautious procedure in business during the next few months. Business leaders are gradually feeling for the bottom of markets. This is making the current recession unusually orderly. It insures against severe depression and makes possible a gradual decline to a level which can be maintained. In short, it makes it possible to call the present recession a process of stabilization.

Probably business will not, during the rest of the year, attain the level reached in the early part of 1923, but it is just as probable that the 1923 bottom will not be so low as that of last year.

It may be said that May bank debits indicate a very large volume of business, wholesale, retail, and speculative—a volume which far exceeds that of the spring months of 1923 and 1924. The excess is partly due to higher prices, but after all allowance is made for this factor, the level of business still seems large.

The conclusions are: (1) There is a truly large volume of industry and trade. (2) A moderate recession is likely to continue until about August. Copyright, U. P. C. News Service, Inc.

FLAX-LINUM IS MADE FROM WHAT ONCE WAS WASTE

Immense Factories Utilize
Straw from Minnesota Flax
Fields

It is often said that of all the industries in economic life, those of lumber and agriculture are the most closely related in that both are basic in nature.

As an outgrowth of the original lumber industry we now have the building material industry which is a natural development, as time has proved that other things than lumber are necessary to the efficient construction of both industrial and home building.

Perhaps one of the results of this development which has and is yielding the most direct connection between agriculture and the building material industry is that in which the product of the farms, is used in the manufacture of heat insulation material. Heat insulation is material built into walls and roofs to prevent heat and cold from entering or leaving houses or other buildings.

This feature of the development of economic life is well illustrated in the product which is manufactured by the Flax-linum Insulating Company in the Midway district, lying between Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minnesota.

Here the tough, everlasting flax straw which at one time was practically an absolute waste, is now being manufactured into a heat insulation of such efficiency and long life that it is readily salable by the building material dealer for the use of it in trade in making homes more comfortable and economical to live in. Not only in houses but in large buildings to save coal and prevent moisture condensation or "sweating," and in apartments in every city to keep rooms quiet and "tune out" the apartment next door, this product is being used by the millions of square feet.

Flax fibre insulation is an outgrowth of the refrigeration industry, the result of a life-time study and experiment in the field by the late Gebhard Bohn, who was perhaps the foremost authority in that field. Mr. Bohn, maker of the famous Bohn Refrigerator and patentee of many refrigerative devices now in use throughout the world has spent years in experimenting to find the ideal heat and cold resisting material.

In 1909 Mr. Bohn came in contact with a man operating a small mill at LeRoy, Minnesota, which was producing an experimental work, a thick felt from flax fibre. The small town of LeRoy is the center of flax industry in southern Minnesota and previous to the time Mr. Bohn's visit there had been practically no market for flax fibre after the seed had been thrashed out.

Flax seed is one of the most important crops of the Northwest and the straw was difficult to dispose by the farmers for the reason that it has long life and has a tenacious durability. It could not be plowed under because it would not rot—only bleached and become a mat of linen fibres. It refused to decay as long as other straw, and when turned up, the next season, because of the "rotten" condition of the soil, it proved to be tougher than when first mixed with the soil.

Realizing the value of such an everlasting material for the purpose of providing insulation building against heat, cold and sound, Mr. Bohn purchased the patents of this process and moved the plant to its present location at Saint Paul. A visit to the plant gives one ample indication of the monstrous growth that the industry has made in the past twenty odd years. One is, perhaps, surprised to see mountainous piles of baled flax straw containing thousands of tons of this material which had previously been waste to the agricultural industry. Adjoining these stacks are a series of buildings whose size and comprehensiveness must be seen to be realized. The entire plant with its warehouses and manufacturing establishment covers twelve acres.

Dried fish and butter usually comprise the Icelandic's dinner.

Canada now is the seventh richest country in the world.

FRENCH ACKNOWLEDGE DEBT.

France is to seek immediate debt settlement with the United States. We have an unofficial but authoritative announcement to this effect from the Painleve government. The decision has been made to formally recognize the French debt to the United States and to proceed at once to secure a settlement. A debt commission is to come to this country to negotiate terms and it is to be followed by a visit from Finance Minister Caillaux in person.

M. Caillaux has demonstrated the superior qualities as a financier attributed to him upon his appointment to the post he holds in the French government. He has worked out a plan for restoring French credit and balancing the budget which has been approved by parliament, and his entire program including inferentially debt settlement with the United States, has received a vote of confidence in the chamber of deputies by a large majority. Thus we appear to be coming to a final conclusion of an understanding with France providing for debt payment. Those who, like Colonel Harvey, predicted that France would never pay, and had no intention of paying are somewhat discredited by this development.

It was inevitable from the beginning that France would recognize the debt, also, that she would pay it. All that remains is an agreement about terms. That these will be amicably and satisfactorily arranged, there is no doubt. Gradually the post-war problems of all the nations affected by them are being worked out agreeably and soundly.

MILITARISTIC FICTION

Illustrating in a humorous way the bass-like tendency of the militaristic press to strike at every bait drawn through the water, we find the Chicago Tribune swallowing the fake Japanese war scare put forward by E. L. Doheny to distract public attention from his alleged bribery of Albert Fall to secure oil leases of colossal value. Here is a sample of its argument in support of the proposition that Doheny performed a patriotic act in negotiating the leases and undertaking to build an oil base in Hawaii: "If the United States could not use Hawaii the Japanese might be able to get across. It would be hard, but naval experts say it might be possible. Possibilities are what they want to avoid. If at any time in any way a landing succeeded the consequences would be unspeakable. If the Japanese had Hawaii the attempt would be easier and the outcome more doubtful."

Try and picture a military expedition from Japan landing on the shores of the United States. It might as well undertake a voyage to the moon. Even if every warship possessed by the United States were to be sunk by the Japanese fleet, still a landing in this country could never be effected. Out of our 110,000,000 population, we would rally an army that would sweep back the small body of men that could be carried on ships for a landing, provided they got anywhere near our shores, with as much swiftness as we would brush flies from the table. All of the talk about the menace of Japan to the sovereignty and soil of the United States is the purest kind of twaddle.

The high-brow stuff we read in the anti-Japan newspapers on this subject is about on a par with the slush of the modern fiction writer. E. L. Doheny put $100,000 in a satchel for Albert Fall and got the Elk Hills oil leases. He was not thinking about a sudden descent of Japan on the United States, for no such descent was imminent or possible. He was thinking about the huge profits he would get from these leases, and Albert Fall was thinking about the use to which he could put the $100,000 bribe he accepted for his part of the transaction, and nothing else. It is a little late to concoct cock and bull stories about patriotic service in this reprehensible scandal.

THE SENATE RULES

Former United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana in an address at the National Education association convention made what is probably the best defense of the senate rules since Vice-President Daves commenced his attack upon them. He is opposed to the reforms General Daves would bring about, particularly the adoption of a cloture rule. His defense of the present system of doing business in the senate rests on the proposition that "the principle of ultimate majorities on which the senate rules are based has stood the test of a century and a quarter." He declared that during his twelve years of service in the senate, he had never seen a measure, backed by the "ultimate majority" of the nation defeated by an abuse of senate rules. His objection to cloture is that it would encourage "a flood of hasty and ill-advised legislation."

The senate of the United States is a phase of government quite distinct and set apart by tradition and exclusiveness from other branches of government. It considers that it is a law unto itself, and that whatever it does is uncensurable. Filibusters meet with the same approval by senators as the breaking up or defeat of filibusters. Obstruction and delay of legislation are praised in one breath, and prompt or arbitrary action in another. Practically all its members are imbued with the spirit of conceit in passing judgment upon acts and policies of the senate. It is so with Mr. Beveridge. No one can really say whether the "ultimate majority" of the nation has prevailed or has been defeated in the senate. Thorough consideration of legislation is one thing, and obstruction another. Full and free discussion is all right, but debate, which has no relation to the merits of a pending measure and is undertaken solely to prevent action, is not all right. Mr. Beveridge's defense of the senate rule, unless carefully analyzed, is on the surface persuasive. There are two sides to the issue raised by General Daves, and yet it seems reasonable to assume that the senate can so modify its rules as to permit full discussion and thorough consideration of each bill under a modified cloture rule.

The principle of "ultimate majority" control in the senate is largely a fiction. The senate is the least responsive branch of government to popular will. Much of its legislation has been in direct opposition to popular will, and of course there are instances where it has failed to respond to the demands of the people. It would be an absurdity to say that the ultimate majority governs in that body. Our conclusion is that the criticisms which General Daves has made of senate procedure are in the main valid. He can find plenty of facts in the senate record to confirm his indictment of its rules. The question of how to reform the rules is not so easily disposed of. It would be possible to amend them in a manner distinctly adverse to the legislative interests of the country. Whatever changes are made or recommended should be adopted with great care. Many able parliamentarians will disagree with General Daves and come to the aid of the senate rules supporters. General Daves shows every intention of standing his ground and bringing the fight to a head. Out of the controversy it is possible some compromise may be reached which will be satisfactory all around, and which will bring about sound reforms.

THIS HUMIDITY

It is the humidity that hurts, rather than the heat or the cold. The comparatively large amount of moisture in the air makes tropical heat hard to endure because evaporation of sweat from the body surface is diminished when the atmosphere is already nearly saturated with water vapor. The only function of sweat is practically the cooling of the body. The comparative dryness of the air in elevated places makes extremely low winter temperatures endurable because the heat of the body is not so readily given off by conduction as it is where there is more water vapor in the air. Excessive moisture, therefore, makes hot air feel hotter and cold air feel colder, the first because evaporation of the sweat is hindered, and the second because the moisture favors conduction.

When there is high humidity in warm weather the dissipation of heat through evaporation of the sweat is lessened, and this is compensated by a great flow of blood to the skin surface, which elevates the surface temperature and facilitates dissipation and convection. Probably this surface suffusion incident to high humidity is the chief reason for the discomfort we feel from humidity.

Humidity has much to do with our comfort, in any weather or any climate. But neither humidity nor temperature, but both of these factors determine comfort, for another factor is quite as important as humidity and temperature, and that is the motion of the air. An instrument called the kato-thermometer measures all three factors. This is for scientific studies and it requires expert technical knowledge to use the instrument. An ingenious and practical application of the same principle is called the gargoyle air tester, and may be used by anybody to determine whether the temperature humidity air motion conditions are within the comfort zone.

White clothing is really cooler than dark clothing because the white reflects the sunlight and the dark absorbs some of the sunlight and converts light rays into heat rays. So white summer attire not only looks cool, but is cool. This has been scientifically proved by means of the kato-thermometer. It does not follow that black clothing is warmer in winter than light colored clothing, for the amount of sunlight is insufficient in winter to make an appreciable difference.

Relatively dry air, warm or cold, north or south, high or low, indoors or outdoors is rather bracing or stimulating, while relatively moist air is depressing or sedative.

There is a neutral zone around 64 to 68 degrees Fahrenheit in which humidity has little effect one way or the other, and this zone is most frequently found in spring or autumn in the temperate zone, naturally. Artificially, the neutral zone is rarely achieved because it is difficult to heat winter air or cool summer air without greatly altering its humidity.

The amount of water vapor in the atmosphere is called the absolute humidity; the ratio of the absolute humidity to the amount the atmosphere could hold at the temperature in question it completely saturated is called the relative humidity. Complete saturation is 100 per cent relative humidity. Although no practical measurement of humidity alone, temperature and air motion being equally important factors, the average humidity in England is 75 per cent, in Denver, 42 per cent, in Los Angeles, 68 per cent. In Egypt, relative humidity decreases from 100 per cent at dawn, to 22 per cent at mid day.

Very Good Eddy.

Inflammation never appears in a part which mortal thought does not reach. That is why opiates relieve it. They quiet the thought by inducing stupefaction—by resorting to error instead of truth. Opiates do not remove the pain, in any proper sense of the word. They only render mortal mind temporarily less painful. These are not my words, but the words of Mrs. Eddy. (P. R. G.)

Answer—Sounds all right to me. I can't conceive of any "part" which mortal thought does not reach.

THE SKEETER

Lo, the pesky, odious musketeer!
Brings distress to many a poor creature.
Just swat him, and you'll find
He'll sting you from behind,
You just can't play the game, for
He's a cheater.

It's no use, folks, to try to intimidate the mosquitoes. It is impossible this year. While you had off to land blow at your left wrist they bite you on the other.

The only tried and approved manner of killing a mosquito is to coax him to your ankle and let him settle. After he has helped himself to a good meal and passed of to slumber—they swat him.

That's the way, people, compromise. Trade one bite for every murder. And for your further comfort and encouragement, we want to inform you that there are still 9,876,343,210, 123,456,789 mosquitoes left after you've killed the first one.

This is the Fourth of July, and the president has named it National Defense day. But what kind of defense can we poor duffers put up against such a formidable foe as the mosquitoes?

In fact, it would be the height of irony and utility to try to make any display of defense in a case like this.

Ye Ed is keeping under cover these days not only from the mosquitoes he hoped import but also from the readers to whom he published his plea to the Weather Man to bring back good old summer with its bees and bugs and mosquitoes.

We could forgive him for the bees and bugs, if only he had not said a word about the mosquitoes.

We admit we have a pretty tough hide, but you can't expect the finger nails to last forever.

Years ago when people were sick they went to the barber shop to be bled by a leech. Now they get bled by mosquitoes and are sick afterward. No oil stock buyer has been bled oftener than Appleton mosquito bitten folk.

It is well to get rid of a little bad blood once in a while, but the skeeters seem to take only the good. Or if it is the bad, it hardly seems necessary for one to go to so much trouble to lose it.

Half of this town is laying for the man who invented the joke about The Three Musketeers. They don't come that way any more, but it is in whole families, and the family of one mosquito is said to consist of 500,000.

ROLLO

Peacemaker

A sermon prepared especially for the Post-Crescent by Dr. Virgil B. Scott, pastor of Memorial Presbyterian church.

Text: Blessed are the peacemakers for they shall be called the children of God. (Matthew 5:9)

That season of the year is once more with us when we celebrate the birthday of our nation and its independence. Many, many thoughts come into our minds as the spirit of the day takes hold of us. We lift our faces to the flag and we thank God for all that it has meant to us and to the whole world. In imagination we follow the events of the history of those times in which the thirteen colonies were wrestling their freedom from the unwilling hands of the mother country. We glory in the fight which those men made that tyranny no longer should reign. We are impressed once more with the fact that alongside of and above the efforts of men there was the will and the power of God who directed events to their happy culmination.

From one end of the nation to another July 4 is set aside as a holiday that men and women may have time in which they can express the feelings of patriotism and devotion to flag and nation. How can we best serve the day is a question which comes to the front. With many it will be just another day in which to revel. With others it will be an opportunity of gaining money and material things. But with thousands it will be almost a holiday—a day not unlike those days in which we celebrate the deeper things of the life of the soul.

Back in the life of that great people who under God gave Monism to the world a great event took place. In a very wonderful manner God freed them from slavery and led them on into a land which was their very own. As the Jews looked back to that experience at the Red sea he learned to celebrate it as a great day—a holy day. In a very real sense July 4 is all this to many of us. We never pass it by without thanking God for the part which his hand has performed in the making and the moulding of our nation and its liberty. But it seems to me that there is something greater than all this we can do these days. We can turn our faces away for a time from what has been done to what needs to be done.

FACE THE FUTURE

That was the spirit of the men who gave us liberty and it has been the spirit of the men who have given us all the great blessings of the past. The great need now at this July 4 is to confront the future and ask ourselves the question, What can we do that will save this nation and make the blessings which have been handed down from the past the blessings and the birthright of the future generations? We have no disposition to minimize the place which war has played in the past. On the other hand we thank God for the brave men who gave their lives for flag and nation in the past. There they are—the heroes of all our wars. They fought for what the believed to be true and we are today enjoying the blessings which their faith and courage and sacrifice made possible.

But there are serious-minded men in the world today who are asking "us question, Can the world stand another war? Will civilization commit suicide? We have passed by far enough the horrors of the great World War that we may be able to enter into a better judgment of its effects on the whole world. And in the light of it all there are many who are saying that it would be ruin to the civilizations of the world to have another war. The last war was dreadful enough with its loss of life and its destruction of property and its great sorrows and its tragic effect on the morals and the spirits of men. But the next war would be far and away beyond the last in all these things. It would be more destructive to life and property.

TWO FLOORS OF GOOD THINGS TO WEAR

It would sow the world with horrors the like of which the world has never seen. It would burden men with debts from which they could never emerge. It would prove the breakdown of faith and morals.

Just the other day we read an article from the pen of one of the great writers of the day in which he spoke of the despair which is in the world today—a despair which can be traced along so many lines. This despair, with all its blackness, would be as the full day to the night that would settle down on the world if another war came. In the light of all this it is time that thinking men turn from it all to the one simple solution which is at hand. One by one the pet schemes of men for the making of a better world have all failed and will fail. And for 2,000 years we have had in the world one way that would lead us out.

CHRIST CONSTRUED WRONGLY

The great trouble is that men have thought all along that Christ was concerned about getting men to heaven when his great concern was in making a better world that would be fit for men to live in and one where they could be fitted for the world that is on ahead. Men have never taken seriously the teaching of Christ. But when He spoke from the side of the mountain where His great soul distilled the mightiest sermon which has ever been preached He was laying down the laws of life which if followed will make this old world of ours into a very paradise of God. "Blessed are the peacemakers for they shall be called the children of God." The world had never heard anything like this before and there are thousands who think it the essence of foolishness today. But the trouble lies in the fact that the world is not Christian but pagan—it worships power and selfishness instead of love and sacrifice. We say blessed are the peacemakers, not the peacemakers, and we crown them with many crowns. We give them the best that the world has. Witness the vast fortunes that have been made out of the blood of men who gave their lives in the fight.

But the brightest day is coming, the day when all this will be changed; the day when men will come to see that the poorest way to settle our disputes is war; a day when it shall be seen that "blessed are the peacemakers."

Coming Events Cast Their Shadow Before

not those who are peacemakers merely because those who are just as brave and just as devoted as any of those who have given their lives on the battle field of the world today are coming to this great truth. They are themselves in utter abandonment and out of it all we will better day.

Slavery was one of these. That it could not be done but done. The saloon was another. Again men said that it could not be done but it was done and abolition is not what many of us wish it to be it is far better than the old days that many of us seen in mining camps and towns on the frontiers of the. And the same instinct for better wiser things will find a way by war will be put down. They way the way which has been in the for 2,000 years. "Blessed are peacemakers for they shall be the children of God."

The Question B

When in doubt—ask Haskins. He is himself as a target for the thousands of our readers. He gives furnish facts for all who ask. It is a large contract—one that never been filled before. It is possible only in Washington, and to one who has spent a lifetime locating sources of information. He does not know all the things people ask him, but he knows who do know. Try him. 200 Girls In Club's Swim Class

With only three or four exceptions all women and girls enrolled in the Appleton Women's club swimming classes which have been conducted twice a week for the last two weeks, and which closed Thursday, learned to swim according to Mrs. E. H. Wright, swimming instructor. The classes were conducted Tuesdays and Thursdays at the Y. M. C. A. pool. There were six classes for beginning swimmers, and one for advanced swimmers.

Practically everyone was able to swim one or two times across the tank, and some could swim the length of the tank. Only two or three were unable to overcome their inborn fear of the water.

The total registration in all seven classes was 257. Not all of these could be accommodated, and so the total number of women attending classes was 201. The average daily attendance was 128, and the average attendance per class was 18.

Between 15 and 20 girls of the advanced swimming class will try to pass the Red Cross life saving test Wednesday and Thursday of next week. A Red Cross examiner is expected to be in the city for the tests.

This was the largest convention ever held in the history of Modern Woodmen of America. There were 522 delegates from all over the United States, 500 clerks and 5,000 forgers. The rainbow parade was held Thursday afternoon and so many people participated that it took two and one half hours to pass the review stand which was occupied by the officers.

The next convention will be held in 1926, but the place has not been decided. It is expected that Chicago will be chosen again because it is centrally located.

Adventures Of The Twins

The Green Beanstalk Fairy
Nimble Jack brought the news back first.

"Snitcher Snatch is gone" he cried. "He had the magic aeroplane hidden in a button-hole tree and he took it and flew off."

But the magic aeroplane was as gone as the ice-cream you had last Sunday.

"There is one thing about an aeroplane," said Mister Whizz thoughtfully. "It doesn't leave any track."

"We'll show you the way he went," said Jack Horner pointing to the steeple that followed the creek up the valley and went between those hills.

"Thank you, boys," said Mister Whizz. "Come, children, maybe we can catch him yet."

And off he started with enormous strides, followed by the Twins in their magic shoes.

"Good-bye!" called the boys of Daddy Gander Town.

"Good-bye!" called the Twins and Mister Whizz.

"Instead of my aeroplane helping me to catch that fellow," grumbled the fairyman as they went along. "It has only helped him to get away. I should have left it at home. Why, what's this?"

No one need to answer that question for it was as plain as the nose on the constable's face—what it was.

It was the magic aeroplane itself, lying on the ground in front of them. There it was, safe and sound, all by itself, not a chick or child near it—certainly not a goblin with a long nose.

"Well, for goodness sake!" cried Mister Whizz. "Will surprises never stop happening? Now, why do you suppose that rascal left my aeroplane here? And why didn't he—"

Suddenly Nancy saw something. "There's a note!" she exclaimed. It's pinned on one side."

Nick took it and opened it and the others crowded near while he read:

"Dear Mister Whizz and the Twins: Some of the magic stuff got up my nose and I can't do anything now but sneeze. All I can do with this old machine is to make it turn somersaults. So take it and keep it and welcome I don't need it anyway. My long legs are enough even if they are crooked. I'm not going to let you have the snuff box until I am through with it. I don't care if the Fairy Queen did give it to her uncle for his birthday. Goblins can only have fun when they are doing something they shouldn't. I can't help it if I'm a goblin. Catch me if you can. Yours in haste,

"Snitcher Snatch."

"Where do you suppose he has gone?" said Nancy looking around.

"Are you looking for someone?" asked a voice close by.

And then the travelers noticed something they hadn't seen before. Their old friend, the beanstalk, stretching to the sky. It was the little green beanstalk fairy talking. There he was, stretching out of one of the windows of his tiny green house.

"Yes, we're looking for Snitcher Snatch," said Nick.

LETTER FROM SALLY ATHERTON TO JOHN ALDEN PRES-COTT

As I telegraphed you, we are in a particular mess down here. I am enclosing two notes which explain themselves. I don't know what made me come back to the office last night after dinner except that I thought possibly there might be a telegram for somebody telling me about Leslie.

You can imagine my surprise when I found the two enclosures which I am sending you. There was no time to waste.

Happily I knew Detective Santley of the police force, and by calling the central station was able to locate him.

We wireless immediately everybody in harbor sailing between midnight and dawn and started out to find Jim.

In the meantime a telephone message to the state prison told us that Mabel Carter's husband had not escaped. The woman had evidently become tired of sitting around while Jim was busy on his new job, and she had taken this way to getting herself and him out of the country.

After considerable delay we at last found them on a small boat leaving for Argentina. Jim was all for braving it out and talked very big until my friend the detective threatened to put him under arrest and I convinced the boy that the woman had lied to him, that her life was not in danger, that her husband was still in the state prison. Then he went to pieces, Mr. Prescott, and was just a heart-broken boy whose illusions were all dispelled and whose trust was forever shattered.

The wonderful sacrifice that he thought he was making had resolved itself just into sordid theft. His love was murdered and his life was also got the money he was taking with him except about a thousand dollars, which he had paid for the tickets to South America. Both these tickets I gave to the woman. She can sell one of them.

Up to date I have succeeded in keeping everything out of the newspapers. Mr. Santley has been a host within himself. He did everything necessary for me.

Of course, you can make any example of Jim that you wish, but I think Jim has learned his lesson. I don't think the boy is a criminal. I wish I could influence you just a little toward giving him another chance.

I hate to think of what he will do if this is not given him.

If Leslie is well enough, perhaps you might come up for a day and fix things up for me. I assure you I do not know which way to turn ruined.

I took him home to my flat. I Sincerely,

SALLY ATHERTON.

GET READY TO SET UP BRIDGE

Steel Work Will Be Raised
While Navigation Is Closed
by Repairs at DePeere

Kaukauna—Navigation has been closed on the Fox river because of repairs which are being made in the transportation channel near DePeere. The low water stage this year has made it difficult for boats to get through just beyond the DePeere dock especially when the tide was out. Blasting is being resorted to in order to make the channel deeper. When the work is completed big boats will be able to get through regardless of the stage of the water.

It is while navigation is closed that bridge contractors plan to set up the steel structure of the draw bridge across the canal here. The work will take from seven to ten days, it is said. The work has been started and there is no indication that construction will be begun.

River traffic was to be held up for about two weeks but it is believed it will be longer before the DePeere work is completed.

BRITISH PASTOR WANTS WOMEN TO FILL PULPITS

By Associated Press

Blyth, Eng.—Why not call in some of the educated women to become preachers of the gospel? asked the Rev. J. Lineham, president of the United States Methodist conference, speaking at a meeting of church workers in Blyth on the great decrease in the number of local ministers in the Methodist churches of the country.

"We might call in the women, because in these days women were undertaking tasks as they had never done before," said Rev. Mr. Lineham. "Women would do wonderful work as ministers, as they had love and sympathy and a delicate intuition which men had not. Take away women, and church life would be terribly weakened."

BROKAW CHURCH GETS GIFT OF U. S. BANNER

Kaukauna—A beautiful silk American flag will be formally presented to Brokaw Methodist church during the morning worship Sunday. The flag which is 2 1/2 feet wide by 7 feet long, was presented to the church by Mrs. James Conway, one of the leading members of the Women's Relief Corps of this city. A flag staff and stand to hold the banner has been given by William Ashe.

It has been planned to have the flag presented by a Sunday school class composed mostly of Boy Scouts. A patriotic song by the class and the flag salute are to be included in the dedicatory program.

CANADIAN SILVER FOXES FIND HOMES IN ENGLAND

By Associated Press

London—British farmers are watching with much interest the experiments which are being made here in an effort to make silver fox farming in England a paying proposition.

Farms have been started at Alness in Scotland, and Oxfordshire and Bexhill-on-Sea. What effect this move will have on the price of silver fox fur in Great Britain cannot at present be stated, but it has been proved during the last 15 years that the best and most costly examples of the silver fox are those of animals bred in captivity. The foxes have been brought here from Canada.

The Rockefeller Foundation in Europe, Dr. Selskar Michael Gunn, before his departure from Sofia after his visit of inspection of sanitation in Bulgaria, arranged for the sending of six local physicians for a year's course of study and practice in American hospitals. These doctors are to be selected by competitive examination, and will leave next September.

Dr. Gunn pronounced himself highly pleased with the arrangements for sanitation in Bulgaria, which he pronounced superior to the achievements along the same lines in several European countries.

Queer Egyptian bird is filmed by Swede

Stockholm—The giant stork "abu markub," or "father shoe beak," rarest and most fantastic among living birds and looked upon as a curious relic of prehistoric eras, has at last been seen in its native haunts by white men, and has been induced to pose before a motion picture camera. This is the accomplished of Bengt Berg, called "Sweden's bird wizard," who has returned from Africa.

Bengt Berg has devoted his life to the study of birds and migratory wildfowl in their habitats, especially rare specimens. He seems to have an almost uncanny knack of getting on familiar terms with them by dint of extreme patience and carefully planned ruses. His latest exploit, the filming of the "abu markub," was preceded by weeks of cruising on the upper Nile. The discovery of the strange bird was made on an unnamed, almost impassable tributary of the Nile.

FIVE ARRESTED IN WEEK'S RAIDS IN WAUPACA-CO

Largest Still Ever Found in County Is Unearthed by Party of Sleuths

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Waupaca—During the last week the sheriff's force with the assistance of state prohibition officers, Edward Sullivan and R. L. Fuller, have made a good showing in cleaning up many parts of the county where moonshine was being made. On Monday, Sheriff Toepke, Undersheriff Swenson and Officer Hewitt, located 17 barrels of mash, 2 twenty gallon stills and a quantity of liquor on the farm of John Ralvon, town of Helvetia. Ralvon was taken before Justice Scott who bound him over to trial in circuit court for the full term and granted him liberty on $1,000 bonds.

Wednesday a raid made in town of Wyoming resulted in the arrest of Ed Bork. At his place they found a still of the largest capacity yet found in the county, 150 gallons in size. About 50 gallons of moonshine whiskey and a quantity of mash were also taken. It was necessary to send a truck for this outfit. Bork is said to have had the still in operation at the time of the raid at his place in a log cabin in a swamp near Little Wolf river. The owner had purchased the farm from former District Attorney J. L. Spengler of Marion. Bork was bound over to circuit court Friday in Justice Scott's court at Waupaca.

Tuesday was the most active day as on that day a greater number of arrests was made. At Big Falls, Alfred Mortensen was arrested and charged with sale of liquor. He pleaded guilty and was bound over to circuit court as the rest were. Clintonville netted two more arrests on the same day. The saloons of C. W. Bender and Bernard Kratzke yielded enough evidence to warrant their arrest.

The congregation of Our Saviour church is arranging to house most of the delegates to the annual convention of the Young People's societies of the Lutheran churches of Wisconsin to be held July 16, 17, 18 and 19 at Our Saviour church. Plans are being made to take care of about 300 delegates from all parts of the state. Services have been arranged for each day in addition to the business sessions. A visit to the orphan home and a grand outing to Camp Cleghorn are among the features of the session.

Charles T. Carroll, director of Waupaca city band, has been engaged as director of the Manawa band and will conduct concerts at that village on Wednesday nights.

STAGE And SCREEN

LOSS OF VOICE A MIS- FORTUNE THAT PROVED A BLESSING IN DISGUISE

Raymond Griffith, Paramount star, hailed by every critic in the country as well as by millions of fans as the new king comedian of the stage, which required him to shout at the top of his voice night after night. His voice failed him and he was compelled to resort to pantomime getting over his effects by facial expression and gesture rather than by spoken lines. Consequently he has developed this faculty to such a degree that he convulses almost every audience with his subtle and unmistakable gags. Griffith's method differs radically from that of Chaplin or Lloyd. Chaplin depends upon satire and the ridiculous figure of the man who thinks he is dressed up when he has holes in his gloves and no trousers to his dress suit. Lloyd goes in for weakness of character—the man who is afraid of women for his laugh getting antics. Griffith however is the happy dapper person who always has a lot of bright ideas for making the world safe for democracy and is always fixing things for other people. His plans tumble down and thereby hangs the comedy of it all. Local fans will remember the imitation of a cat he gave in "Little Miss Bluebird" and the thrilling scenes of the motorboat fight in "Forty Winks" in which he recovers the lost naval plans with only a canteen as a clue. He will appear at Fischer's Appleton theater this Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in his latest comedy scream "The Night Club." Featured in the cast are Vera Reynolds who made such a hit in "Feet of Clay" and "The Golden Bed," also Wallace Beery and Louise Fazenda. Also a Mack Sennet Comedy "Hold My Baby" and Topics of the day.

A GREAT STAGE PLAY NOW A GREATER PICTURE

"Lost in a Big City" one of the greatest pictures ever made will be at the New Bijou Theater Monday and Tuesday. It is difficult to record in black and white all those things which combine to make "Lost in a Big City" remarkable, for thrill follows thrill with cyclonic rapidity while through it all there runs a delicately beautiful and infinitely tender love theme—or rather a series of love themes. John Lowell dominates the picture by sheer strength of character and histrionic ability. As "Harry Farley," the brother who returns from Alaska to find his sister betrayed and broken he paints a picture as vivid as it is compelling. And how he can fight! There is one scene which shows him rescuing his little blind Florence from the clutches of a gang of ruffians, wherein he is called upon to face the onslaught of eight men. This fight is just one of the thrills. There are others which include a daring escape by automobile, wherein the car and its occupants are almost dashed into eternity by a speeding locomotive, there is a mile a minute airplane ride, there is a fight between the State Constabulary and a gang of bootleggers and there is the dynamiting of the hut. There are what may be termed the outstanding or salient thrills and exclusive of these there are several "punches" contained in "Lost in a Big City" which we guarantee will keep even the most blue theater-goer either sitting on the edge of his or her seat, or up on the tips of his or her toes.

LOVE AND STRIFE IN NEW UNIVERSAL FILM

The ardent capacity for loving and for fighting that bubbles merrily in the soul of the Irishman, and the fiery passion that flames in the soul of the daughter of Italy, are said to be portrayed in realistic manner in "The Man in Blue," Universal-Jewel co-starring Herbert Rawlinson and Madge Bellamy, and showing at the Elite theatre today and Sunday. The action of the story takes place in the Italian settlement of New York, and Rawlinson plays the part of a policeman who walks a beat in the district. Miss Bellamy plays the part of an Italian flower girl whose admiration for the stalwart man in uniform grows rapidly into a deep love. The cop is Cupid's captive the moment he first beholds her beautiful helplessness.

Edwin Carewe as a feature player to support Nazimova in "My Son," the First National feature coming to the Elite Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, has the name role. The part is a radical change from any Pickford has heretofore interpreted, inasmuch as he appears as a Portuguese fisher boy who loves three women. Pickford in the past has had a wide range of characterizations, but his latest role, he declares, is his happiest. Other supporting members in Carewe's company include such well known thespians as Hobart Bosworth, Ian Keith, Charley Murray, Mary

Living Up to Our Ideals

Every organization starts out with certain ideals, which, if only adhered to, would be pretty sure to result ultimately in success. Unfortunately, in the stress and press of actual existence, these ideals are too often forgotten.

This organization, has striven constantly to maintain and develop the high ideals that have always actuated its activities. We like to feel that we have succeeded in doing this.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton © 1925 NEA SERVICE INC.

She looked at May critically. May was coarsening. She wore too much rouge. May was smiling with narrowed eyes at someone across the restaurant.

And in a minute or two, Gloria saw Jim Carewe leave his table near the wall and across the room toward them.

Jim Carewe was one of May's old flames. The town gossip said he was still in love with her.

"Don't you girls want to go for a nice long drive this afternoon?" Jim asked, looking down at May.

"Oh, Jim, don't ask the bride to go joy-riding!" May said in pretended horror. "Wait a year or so till she's bored to tears with home and husband. Confine your fascinations to an old married vamp like me."

She broke off, following Gloria's terrified gaze across the room. A few tables away Dick's mother was sitting, in all her glory of black silk and sables! On her broad florid face was a look of disgust as she surveyed them!

Gloria swayed slowly to her feet. Her face was white as she walked across the dining-room to Mother Gregory's table.

She was afraid of this major-domo of a woman and mother Gregory knew it.

"Come into the dressing-room with me," she said sharply. "I want to talk to you a minute or two."

She gripped Gloria above the elbow and steered her out into the women's rest room. May Seymour winked at Gloria as they passed.

Gloria pulled off her hat and began to powder her nose, before the mirror, to gain a moment's time to gather her wits.

"Sit down!" Mother Gregory said. And Gloria sat.

"Now then," Dick's mother said in her powerful voice, "what in the world are you doing down here with that woman who is the talk of the town? Have you lost your senses?"

"How do you mean, talk of the town?" Gloria asked weakly.

Mother Gregory snorted.

"You know as well as I do that her affair with Jim Carewe is common talk everywhere!" she said. "And here I find you sitting with them, when everybody can see you!"

"And another thing, young woman," I sent Maggie over to your house to show you how to cook and take care of the home Dick's given you... not to leave you free to gallivant all over town with your queer friends!"

"If that's what Maggie's there for, you can have her back... and I'll get a maid of my own!" Gloria cried.

Her fear of Dick's mother was blotted out by her sudden anger.

"If you think I'm going to be a scrubbing-brush for your precious son, you're barking up the wrong tree. I'm not going to drudge for him or for anybody else!" she cried. Tears of fury were in her voice.

"He can perfectly afford to get me a cook, and I don't mean anything previous! I don't have to work in his house... I can go out and earn my $25 any week in the year. And it won't be at dishwashing either."

She rose and, returning to the dining room, gathered up her beaded bag and white gloves.

Mother Gregory followed. She laid her jeweled hand on Gloria's arm.

"Sit down a minute, while I pay my check," she said gently, "and we'll leave together. There's no need to make a scene this way, is there?"

Together they walked out of the crowded restaurant.

Gloria had forgotten all about May Seymour.

Outside in the street stood Mother Gregory's coupe.

"Jump in!" she said to Gloria. The girl hesitated.

"I have a little shopping to do," she said.

"Jump in!" Mother Gregory repeated. "I'll drive you home. It's time you and I had a talk about things in general, and marriage in particular."

She started the car.

"Now, Gloria," she began, "just what is your idea of what you owe my son, as his wife?"

"What do I owe Dick?" she repeated in surprise. "Why, I don't

SEA LIONS ARE FINE FOR USE AS HOUSE PETS

London—The sea lion is the ideal pet and the perfect friend of man, according to recommendations made by members of the Amateur Menagerie club, who published recently a book on their various experiences with animals. Owing to the expense of the upkeep of a sea lion, however, it is not probable that they will ever replace cats and dogs as pets. A sea lion has all the intelligence of a dog, adaptability and affection, and requires no license, but ordinarily its costs from $500 to $700 a year to keep a pet of this kind.

One of the club members, L. R. Brightwell, has had much experience with sea lions as pets and highly recommends them. In his opinion it is only the high rate for the use of water and the cost of fish as food which prevents the sea lion becoming a universal pet.

"Greed is undoubtedly the sea lion's one great fault," writes Mr. Brightwell, "but given enough fish, a sea lion may be taught anything. His amazing gifts of balancing, diving and forming picturesque groups are implanted in him by nature."

SMOKERS DON'T NEED GAS MASK FOR CIGARETS

Washington—Chemists in the Federal bureau of mines wanted to see just how much carbon-monoxide gas a tobacco smoker absorbed into his system.

So they called a group of men to bether, supplied them with cigars, cigarettes and pipes and ordered them to puff away.

The tests continued for nearly two hours in a room of 1000 cubic feet. At one time, the men could scarcely see across the room. It became necessary for them to wear goggles to avoid eye irritations.

Samples of the atmosphere were taken at intervals. At no time did they show more than two-hundredths of 1 per cent for cigaret and pipe smoke.

At this despite the fact that the smoke was four to six times more concentrated than would be tolerated under ventilated conditions.

Blood tests were made. In no instance did these show more than 5 per cent saturation. And it takes about 20 per cent to produce any symptoms of carbon-monoxide poison such as headache or dizziness.

The total amount of carbon monoxide found was no greater, if as much as on streets in the large cities where automobile exhaust gases are exceptionally thick.

When Better Automobiles Are Built, Buick Will Build Them

"Nobody can say I wasted my money"

Peter DePaolo—1925 Indianapolis Race Winner

This statement from the young race driver, who purchased a Buick a week after he wheeled his car to victory at Indianapolis and broke the record of that famous Speedway, sums up the nation-wide opinion of Buick.

For, just as DePaolo recognizes the superiority of valve-in-head engines for the race track and personal use, so too have more than a million every-day motorists recognized the dependability and performance of Buick and the Valve-in-Head type of engine upon which Buick has concentrated for 21 years.

DePaolo bought a new Buick with part of the $39,000 prize money that he won on the Indianapolis Speedway and drove it to Altoona where he won the 250 mile race. He bought it with the motor car expert's discriminating eye for performance, for dependability and for genuine value. And his purchase, made solely because he has tried Buick and tested its performance for himself, is further evidence of the regard in which Buick is so universally held.

BABE'S SINGLE HELPS YANKS DEFEAT ATHLETICS, 1-0

Senators Blank Red Sox, 11 To 0, As Coveleskie Turns In Tenth Victory

Donohue Allows Pittsburgh Crew but Four Scattered Hits and Wins 8 to 0 Victory

By Associated Press
New York—Though illness and injury have subtracted their toll from a disappointing batting average, Babe Ruth's big stick still figures in the pennant race of the American league.

Ruth's single rebounded from the back of the Yankee slugger Friday in the New York club's game with the Athletics, but out of it grew the only home run of a pitching duel between Bob Donohue and Sam Gray which was strong enough to boost the leading Yankees two full games ahead of the Athletics.

The Yankees' companion shutout, posted by the Athletics' capital team brought the home run single out in bold relief, the Yankees outfielder was curbing the bases in the fourth inning after successive hits by Meusel and Egan, Stanley Coveleskie was turned in his tenth pitching triumph of the season for the Harris managed Athletics at Boston.

Twenty-one terrific smashes were checked behind Coveleskie's brilliant pitching by the Senators, four apiece Goslin and Rice, as the pacesetters piled up eleven runs to win in an average-boosting romp over the Sox, 11 to 0.

SHUT OUT PITTSBURG
Stanley Osbourne started the bats of the Athletics in the face of an opportunity to win the National lead as Pittsburgh came down to an 8 to 0 defeat before being pitched by Pete Donohue of Cincinnati. The Brooklyn southpaw, after giving the senior circuit champions a three-run handicap in the first inning, shut them out in the remaining eight frames and the Dodgers crashed home in front, 6 to 3, on a grand slam by Wheat in the eighth after the Athletics had been filled.

Four scattered hits constituted the Athletics' batting liberty performance at Pittsburgh, but they were not enough to overcome the Yankees' onslaught. Babe Adams, opposing Donohue with more generosity, was driven from the mound with a four-run tally in the second, while off the horizon, who succeeded Adams, the Athletics gathered four additional tallies in the eighth and 8 to 0.

In the other games of the National league, Cardinals clustered 16 hits off Stan Coveleskie and Jacobs for a 10 to 8 over a victory against Chicago after an uphill struggle decided by a three-run homer in the tenth, while timely home runs by Wilson, Fonseca and Wright-one gave the Phillies a 10 to 6 victory over the Braves. Round trip hits by Bell, Bottomley, Frigerio and Artt featured the St. Louis-Chicago melée. After scoring five runs in the first frame, the White Sox had trouble winning by 10 to 5. Detroit sluggers favored by steady pitching from St. Louis at 8 to 4 on good pitching by Heinemann and Tavernier, a former of whom garnered three triples.

WALLY PIPP WILL BE OUT OF GAME 4 WEEKS

New York—Wally Pipp, Yankee first baseman, who suffered concussion of the brain when hit by a pitched ball Thursday is much improved, hospital authorities said Friday. He will be unable to leave the hospital for at least two weeks, and the possibility of his being available to play in a month is remote.

PAST AND WEST EVEN IN BOTH BIG WHEELS

In both major leagues the east division, and strangely enough, by all represent different cities. In the National the first four include the Pirates, Giants, Dodgers and Cardinals and in the American the Athletics, Athletics, White Sox and Tigers.

Even Broken Neck Couldn't Keep Stivers Out Of Sport

San Francisco—A slight frame and for one season, an injury amounting to a broken neck, couldn't keep Stivers from "skipping" Stivers from the Pacific coast has ever produced. And a little charmness at hitting the ball isn't going to keep him from starting in professional baseball either.

"That's the way I feel about it," says Stivers, who is being tried by the San Francisco Coast league club as an extra fielder this year. Forty youngsters tried for the job with the Seals. Two were cut. Stivers is one of these. They laughed a little when the "pounder" trotted out with the foot ball squad at University of Idaho three years ago. But mention his name now, and the students dorr hats and talk softly. In those three years little "Skipper" the mainspring of a light team

The champion sees little prospect of any work before July of next year when he is to meet Gene Tunney. He disclaims suggestions that he is holding out for high prices, declaring his willingness to fight at any time on a percentage basis.

TIMELY HITTING IS WHAT COUNTS MOST

YANKES GET EVEN BREAK ON HOME LOT

In their recent at home stand the Yankees obtained an even break in 20 games. They split four-frames with the Indians, Washington and Chicago, copped three out of four from the Browns and dropped three out of four with the Tigers.

CHARLEY CALDWELL NOW WITH NEW YORK YANKS

Another college ball playing star has joined the big leagues. He's Charley Caldwell, Princeton's great pitcher. Caldwell has been signed by the Yankees, where he is to be given an early chance to show his wares.

CHIMNEY FOX LAIR
Petersfield, Eng.—Chased by hounds, a fox ran into a greenhouse here and vanished up a chimney. Smoke failed to force it out, and when the chimney was torn down, four live rabbits were found in it with the fox.

Roland M'Kenzie Looks Like Next Amateur King

By Joe Williams
It may be Stewart Maiden against Freddie McLeod in the national amateur this year.

What business, you ask, have Maiden and McLeod, two of the country's oldest professionals, to figure in the amateur golf championship?

Well, Maiden will be starting his veteran campaign, Bobby Jones, the Man O' War of the links, and McLeod will be saddling MacKenzie, the best looking two-year-old that ever dipped a snout in a bucket of oats.

There, we knew we shouldn't have gone to the track yesterday. McLeod will be starting his 18-year-old pupil, MacKenzie, of the Washington district and holder of the Middle Atlantic title and in many respects, one of the most promising youngsters in golf.

It is hardly to be expected that young MacKenzie, with only four years of golf back of him, will run rough soled over Jones and the field at Pittsburgh this year, yet this might easily come to pass, golf being the kind of a game it is.

MAC KENZIE HAS POISE

McLeod, a former open champion, thinks MacKenzie has everything a potential champion needs. "The shots aren't the most important feature," McLeod says. "The thing you call poise, which is just another name for nerve in a pinch, makes or breaks the player who is capable enough to set close to a title."

McLeod thinks MacKenzie has more poise than any youngster he ever saw on the links.

MacKenzie rather proved this himself last fall at Merion when he took the hard fighting George Von Elm to an extra hole before surrendering in the national championship.

It was the youngster's first appearance in a major tournament. Von Elm was in brilliant form and went on, you will recall, to the finals where he bowed to Jones. MacKenzie played him shot for shot during both the morning and afternoon rounds. Waning strength, more than anything else, finally beat him.

GETS DISTANCE OFF TEE

MacKenzie hits a long ball off the tee, as long as a ball in fact, as any of the top raters. On the greens he is touch. There is a smoothness of reach about his stroke that is reminiscent of Ounmet, probably the finest putter among the amateurs.

MacKenzie plays the game with a seriousness and a gravity that is rather at odds with his extreme youth. Much of his time on the links is devoted to practice. Back in his head is the thought that some day he will be wearing the amateur crown.

It may not be this year but it will be soon, and "sooner than you think" to quote the tiny McLeod.

ROTARY AFTER SECOND PLACE

Rotarians Would Gain Undisputed Claim by Beating Kiwanians

STANDINGS

Rotary	1	2	.334

With the Lions and Rotarians tied for second place in the Lark Twilight league after the Jungle Kings' drubbing Wednesday afternoon, the Rotarians are hopeful of coming in ahead of the Lions Tuesday by showing the Kiwanis team a step deeper.

There was some doubt earlier in the week whether the Rotary would continue in the league but it looks as though the difficulty has been patched up now, and according to present plans Tuesday's game will come off as scheduled.

LEANDER CLUB KEEPS GRAND CHALLENGE CUP

Henley-on-Thames, Eng.—The Leander club eight successfully defended the Grand Challenge cup in the final heat of the event on the Henley regatta program Saturday, defeating the Thames club by three quarters of a length in the record time of 6 minutes 53 seconds.

The course measures a mile and 500 yards.

PITTSBURG HANGS UP FEAT IN RUN SCORING

Over a two-game stretch the Pirates recently tured in a total of 45 runs. They got 21 one day and 24 in the next tilt. This is no doubt a new record in major league play, in fact is a modern mark.

MOVIES BENEFIT U. S. TRADE, SAYS LONDON

London—"Trade follows the film," says the London Daily News in an article relating to the benefits obtained by American industry through the medium of the moving picture. American clothing and shoes and various other articles have become so well known through the film in various parts of the world that there is a regular demand for them and British dealers have started fashioning their goods accordingly, says the newspaper. In this respect the Daily News quotes Percy Nash, one of the best known British producers, as saying:

"So great is the influence of the American film that many British manufacturers of ready made clothing and shoes have had to alter their designs and to manufacture on American models with which their overseas customers have been familiarized by the American moving picture."

MEAL CHECKS REDUCE BERLIN BEGGAR RANKS

Berlin—An effective method of getting rid of professional beggars has been devised by the Berlin Women's club. It has issued books of coupons in denominations of five and ten pennings, which Berlin families can purchase with a view of handing these meal checks to beggars.

The beggar takes them to the municipal district welfare office of his district, whereupon he is given a free meal. At the same time his case is looked into by district welfare workers. Professional beggars never come again to a house in which they receive a meal check instead of cash. In fact, the skin furnished to such families for display and reading. "Alms are here given only in the form of meal checks," is usually enough to scare them away.

M'CAULEY GOES GOOD IN START

Former Neenah-Menasha Player Now Pitching for Shreveport Club

Dubuque, Ia.,—"Sy" McCauley, whose pitching feats at Columbia college for four years attracted the attention of big league scouts and resulted in a Chicago White Sox re-signing being attached to him, showed some classy mound work before fans at Fort Worth, Tex., in his first start.

Making his debut with the Shreveport club he went on the mound in the seventh inning with the score 9 to 1 in favor of Fort Worth. He threw nine balls in that inning, striking out Mullen, Sears, and Konetchy, the Fort Worth "wrecking crew." He struck out the first man in the next inning and the other two grounded out.

"Sy" McCauley pitched part of one season for the Neenah-Menasha Falls in the old Wisconsin State league.

WANT BOOKS TELLING TRUTH ABOUT ALASKA

Juneau, Alaska—Although Alaska is a storehouse of inspiration for distinctive Alaskan literature there is a demand for writers to "accurately portray the beauty of Alaska and give the world a true picture of the territory," according to R. E. Robertson, a member of the Parent-Teacher association here.

"I little doubt that if all the government reports and surveys by various companies, writers, on Alaska were dumped down on Alaskan soil it would cover her 590,000 square miles so deep that Mt. McKinley, the highest peak on the North American continent, would be covered," said Mr. Robertson. "And, despite all that has been written about the territory, there is nothing really distinctive about Alaskan literature."

Mr. Robertson declared certain poems and novels of Alaskan writers were not strictly distinctive.

BORIS LIKES TO GIVE QUIET LITTLE DINNERS

Sofia—One of the indications of returning normality in Bulgarian affairs is the resumption of the entertaining of cabinet ministers and foreign diplomats by King Boris.

Last winter the king resumed diplomatic dinners on a modest scale for the first time since the World war, and the return to this practice on a larger scale than last year is regarded here as a step in the right direction.

A feature of these events is the atmosphere of informality that characterizes them. King Boris talks freely with his guests.

BRITISH ARMY BELIEVES IN WELL PREPARED FOOD

London—The British army has never been better fed than it is today, says a war officer official. Cooks are specially trained and their work will easily challenge comparison with that of West End chefs.

So sure are the authorities of this fact that Britain's new way of feeding its fighters will be demonstrated at a cookery and food exhibition in London next month. Cooks from the three service branches, army, navy and air force, will be there.

The excellence of the army cook's culinary efforts is due largely to a new book issued by the army council, which gives full instructions as to baking, steaming, braising and frying, as well as recipes and hints on carving.

APPLETON READY FOR HARD FIGHT WITH INVADERS

Baetzmen Work Hard During Week and Bolster Lineup Against Fondy

Appleton was all set to put up a desperate battle with Fond du Lac at 2:30 Saturday afternoon for a chance at first place in the Eastern Wisconsin league at Brandt park here. The Baetzmen turned out for practice almost every afternoon during the week and added three new men to their contest with the second place invaders. They were confident of their ability to follow the example of Oshkosh which defeated Fond du Lac, 5 to 1, last weekend.

Harry Sylvester, former manager of the Papermakers in the old State league, had been signed to cover first base Saturday afternoon, with Len Smith in left field and a Kaukauna youngster of considerable ability trying out for center or rightfield. Sylvester's ability to get a line on any pitcher was expected to add much to Appleton's chances, and Smith's fielding also was regarded as a valuable asset.

The Appleton club has held its own with every team on the circuit except Plymouth so far, having won one and lost one to each team excepting the league leaders, who won both. All the scores were extremely close, the games being won or lost by three or four points at the most. This, coupled with the fact that Plymouth, Fond du Lac and Appleton are bunched closely on top of the ladder, is making the race exciting, and interest in the circuit has been growing steadily since it started to play.

AUTO INDICATOR OVERCOMES FOG

New Invention Expected to Guide Bewildered Motorist Through London

London—London fogs, even at their worst, will have no terrors for tramcar passengers of the future if an invention demonstrated here recently meets half the promises of the inventor.

Long famous for grasping, soot and smoke and nearly everything which floats and holds them suspended in the air, London fogs sometimes bring street traffic to a standstill for hours at a time, as drivers cannot see their way, even by the aid of powerful headlights and other special arrangements. But this trouble may be overcome by the auto indicator, it is contended, as it shows the passenger and the motorman as well the exact location of the car at all times.

A red pointer works on a chain which by C. J. Spencer, a general manager, to be a success. The London county council, operating part of the London street car system, has agreed to adopt the indicator if it proves a success on the Metropolitan.

The guide was tried out by the Metropolitan tramways recently and was said by C. J. Spencer, a general manager, to be a success. The London county council, operating part of the London street car system, has agreed to adopt the indicator if it proves a success on the Metropolitan.

TRIBES OF BORNEO BURY HATCHET IN ODD RITES

The Hagae—Diapindes, give interesting details of a peace ceremony between the different Dyak tribes of that island. These clans have been constantly fighting each other for years, and have the reputation of being ferocious and bloodthirsty head-hunters.

Some 4,600 Dyaks came to the gathering. There were present a few Dutch and British officials, who witnessed curious war dances, songs and prayers by medicine men. Finally the head priest killed a pig by a slow method and sprinkled its blood over the multitude, pronouncing a terrible curse upon anyone who should presume to revive the inter-tribal quarrels.

GAS BURNING SHOWS ENGLISH MEAL HOURS

London—The hot Sunday mid-day dinner is still a favorite among the majority of English people, says a report on gas consumption, which England is at its maximum between 11 o'clock in the morning and 1 p. m. on Sundays.

Care observers of gas consumption say that the hours of cooking vary in different towns. Brighton, for instance, spends more time on the stove and pie and goes on cooking until nearly 3 p. m. Nottingham is closer to the continental style and uses more gas for cooking in the evening. Scotland with stricter observance of the Sabbath, does most of its cooking for Sunday on the previous day.

Appleton And Twin City Factions Of Riverview Country Club In Match

Mixed Foursome and Ballgame Between Fats and Leans Scheduled to Follow Team Play

Seventy eight members of the Riverview Country club had been paired for the team match between Appleton and Neenah factions Saturday morning, and it was expected that that at least fifty of them would appear for the contest. J. D. Steele, captain of the Appleton faction, was forced to lend several of his men to the Twin city outfit in order to make the pairings come out right, among them was Jim Rose, the club professional. C. B. Clark of Neenah was captain of the other team.

Play was scheduled to start early in the morning, with a mixed foursome to follow at 1:30 in the afternoon, and a ballgame between the Fats and the Leans after that. R. E. Thichens had been chosen to lead the leans and F. E. Holbrook the Fats, with Dr. L. H. Moore as umpire.

The stakes in the morning team match were luncheons for the winners. This and the fact that memberships are divided almost equally among the two cities was expected to make the competition very keen, and it looked as though the contest would bring out one of the largest turnouts in the history of the club.

GUNBOATS PROTECT WHITE MEN IN CHINA

Canton—Gunboats are proceeding to all outlying communities to protect foreigners threatened by the anti foreign wave now sweeping through China.

In Canton it is considered dangerous for residents of Shameen, the foreign settlement, to visit the Chinese section of the city, where there has been an apparent revival of business in native circles. German firms also are continuing business as usual.

The British consul general continues to await the expected British demands on the Canton government.

AIR DERBY OFFICIALS FALL WITH AIRPLANE

Croydon, England—An air liner carrying officials and newspaper men to observe Friday's aerial derby around England for the King's cup, crashed near Durnham. The wings of the plane were damaged but there were no casualties. The plan to report the race from the air was abandoned.

UNCLE SAM WARNS OF COUNTERFEIT BILLS

Warning has been issued to postmasters by the United States postal department at Washington to watch for three new counterfeit bills all of which are poorly made and comparatively easy to detect, according to the bulletin. There are two $5 bills and one $20 note.

One of the $5 bills is a national currency note on the Chase National bank of New York of the series of 1902. It bears the check letter E, charter number 2370, treasury number X158758H, and the portrait of Benjamin Harrison. This bill appears to be a photographic reproduction retouched with inks. The numerals are printed in black instead of green.

The second $5 bill is a Federal Reserve note on the Federal Reserve bank of New York. The check letter is C, the face plate is number 1139. The note bears the stamped signature of A. W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, and of Frank White, treasurer of the United States, and the portrait of Lincoln very crudely done. The $20 is a poorly executed zinc or copper etching of a federal reserve note on the Federal Reserve bank of Boston, Mass., bearing the check letter C. The plate number is blurred and indistinct, and the note carries the portrait of Grover Cleveland.

300 BOYS SIGN AS CHERRY PICKERS

Camp Quota Is Filled and No More Pickers Will Be Taken, Cross Says

Registration for the Cherry Harvesters camp at Sturgeon Bay are now closed as the full quota of 300 pickers have signed up according to C. Willard Cross, of the Appleton high school faculty, director of the camp. Appleton has the largest number of boys signed up with a total of 54. The boys will leave for camp on July 13. The date for the opening of the camp was postponed a week because the recent cold weather has retarded the crop.

Cherry pickers camp will be quar-tered in barracks on the Sturgeon Bay fair grounds. The Cherry Harvesters association has a membership of 25 and picks cherries for 23 growers. It pays all the overhead ex-penses of the company besides paying the pickers. The rate paid the pickers is 24 cents a quart for cherries picked off the stem, and 2 cents a quart for cherries picked with the stem. Last year the average daily for one boy was 57 quarts. Douglas Hyde set a record of 217 quarts picked in one day last summer.

Stops your car
Quicker!
"I stopped my car in 29 feet going 20 miles an hour!"

MR. JOE Kosmosky, of 6508 S. Talman Ave., Chicago, Ill., says, "I stop my Checker Cab, which is equipped with two-wheel brakes using Rusco Brake Lining, in 29 feet going 20 miles an hour."

That's how safe Rusco-

Wet weather makes no difference

RUSCO is an all-weather lining. It will stop your car just as quickly in wet weather as in dry. Turn the hose on Rusco-lined brakes. Then on any other kind. Water makes no difference to Rusco's stopping ability! It is treated with a special compound that makes it resist water, heat, oil, dirt and wear. It will not burn.

Your repair man pays more for Rusco than for other brands of lining but he doesn't charge you more.

IN GIVING you Rusco—the finest quality brake lining it is possible for the repair man to obtain—he accepts a less profit than if he sold you any other brand. When your brakes need relining, be sure to get the benefit of Rusco's superiority and the conscientious service of a repair man who is willing to take less profit in order to give you a better job. Have your brakes inspected and relined at any of the garages listed below. They are brake lining experts, using special electrical equipment for accurate relining of your brakes and insuring lining to brake band.

Of Course---

You have all heard the story of the three men seated in the smoking compartment of the parlor car, each presenting his answer to the question, Who Was America's Greatest Man?

The first man thought Washington was the leader, The second man felt that Ford was entitled to the honor, The third man said he was rather hard pressed to make a selection but thought that the fellow who invented interest was no slouch.

It is absolutely true that your dollars can help you build up a comfortable balance against old age or provide an educational fund for your boy or girl.

For example: Suppose you were to save $10.00 per month with us for 138 months, that would mean a total saving of $1,380 and the estimated earnings of those dollars would net you $620 more, making a grand total of $2,000. This is only one of our many plans for systematic monthly saving. Members are saving from $1.00 to $100.00 per month.

We have one that will please YOU. Start today.
